

Astoria, NY Author Publishes Spiritual Memoir

In This Memoir A Woman Overcomes Drugs and Suicide to Become a Hopeful, Spiritual Person

God's Will, Fleshed Out, in My Life, a new book by LaVerne Middleton, has been released by Dorrance Publishing Co., Inc.

God's Will, Fleshed Out, in My Life observes the spiritual journey of LaVerne Middleton, from an infant who was addicted to drugs from her mother's womb to a teenager who overcame suicide. Growing up as a Christian, she often heard the same things at church: "God will remove all your sins when you receive Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior," "life itself gets better," or if you are sick and you have been praying for healing, and your healing has not come, some Christians would say, "Your faith is not strong enough to please God."

Middleton addresses questionable teachings such as these and gets at the root of Christianity and how God is faithful even throughout the highs and lows of our spiritual journeys. She wants to encourage readers to trust God and wait on the Holy Spirit.

About the Author

LaVerne Middleton is the mother of three children, grandmother of seven, and great-grandmother of two. She enjoys painting, storytelling, and studying the Bible. She has overcome drug addiction and suicide attempts thanks to Christ's intercession on her behalf and the help of her grandmother. LaVerne thanks God for having other plans for her life.
