In This Novel a Teenager Must Find Her True Passion in Life

Passion in Life, a new book by Tim B. Wolfe, has been released by Dorrance Publishing Co., Inc.

Passion in Life is about finding your calling in life, whether it's in school, at home with family and friends, or in finding romance all around you. The author hopes readers see there is love in the forms of a best friend, a sister, a lover, and a mother; but that finding one's passion can also be about what inspires you, that makes you, well, you. One must then understand that those around you can either refuse to believe in what you want to accomplish or they can help inspire you.

This book tells the story of Holly, a teenager, who is constantly challenged by the people around her. In high school, everyone wonders what they will make of their lives.
