In This Fantasy Novel a Preteen Girl Must Navigate Wizard School

Restart: Book One: The Shadow Killer Series, a new book by Nabeeha Haque, has been released by Dorrance Publishing Co., Inc.

On her way to school one morning, 12-year-old Brea Millard is hit by a car, and then wakes up transported to the Coquelicot Boarding School for Mages and Wizards. There, she encounters a harrowing series of trials and adventures, some terrifying, some hilarious, trying to carry out the crucial mission that has been put on her. The theme: The ones you least expect are the ones who make a difference. The inspiration: When looking back in history or even today the world can be cruel. Nabeeha Haque wants people to see that no matter how we look, speak, or act, we are all living beings working to make the most out of our life. As Osho Rajneesh has once said, “The real question is not whether life exists after death. The real question is whether you are alive before death.”

About the Author

Nabeeha Haque likes to play soccer, watch anime, read, sing, and hang out with friends. She keeps a small journal where she writes down any ideas that come to her. She likes looking at the view from a high branch on a tree, or watching the ocean on a windy day. She loves looking at the sunset. She likes taking pictures of pretty things in nature and riding rollercoasters. Haque dislikes potatoes, with an exception for potato chips and crispy fries.
